

With Kaiseki at the core

The Menu

We welcome you to Odo East Village, Chef Odo’s newest project, blending the elements of “Kaiseki” and “Izakaya”. While Kaiseki cuisine is considered one of the most formal dining experiences, Chef Odo peels back the layers to create a menu that is approachable, yet refined. Breaking down some of the courses one could find during Kaiseki, we offer an array of small bites that are meant to be shared. While a few options, such as the “Owan,” “Tofu,” and “Donburi” are recommended to be ordered individually, our goal is to offer guests a chance to try multiple dishes from each “course”.

Binchotan (Sumiyaki) has naturally found its place in kaiseki and in life, not for bold heat, but for quiet precision. Kept at a respectful distance, the charcoal cooks slowly over gentle, indirect heat. The result is not force, but balance—cooked slowly, letting the aroma rise without burning the surface.	18 ramp miso	12 ponzu, katsuobushi, chives, ground sesame	36 kagoshima kuroge beef, kuro shichimi	28 daily rotating fish
